

Trojan Staff Focuses On What And Who

Handicapped by limited personnel, the 1968 Trojan staff worked at top speed and with small numbers to meet its copy deadlines. The group was assisted by members of the Commentator staff. Gary Strand was in charge of advertising and subscriptions. Roger Fischer supervised the photography.

Others who helped produce the book were Janet Sax, Richard Kaltenberg, Terry Anderson, Jim Arvidson, Judy Laude, Paulann and Pauline Audette, Allan Martens, Glenda Vignes, and James Bierschbach.

The format and distribution date were changed this year to provide a larger and more complete resume of fall, winter, and spring activities.

Jim Bierschbach and Glenda Vignes check some final copy before it is mailed to the printer.

Judy Laude, (left) types copy. Below: Rick Kaltenberg and Terry Anderson prepare their sports section. Checking and typing the roster of students' names was part of the task of Paulann and Pauline Audette.

The man who earned the money, Gary Strand, spent hours soliciting advertising in Crookston and its environs.

