

January 20 the Trojans were swamped by the NDSU freshmen team, 115-87. Despite the good showing that the Tech cagers made, 87 points was the most they could garner against the Bisons.

Pulling out of their losing slump, the squad went on to take its last three games by margins ranging from more than thirty to three points. Brainerd was crushed, 103-65, on February 17. This game was predicted to be a tight battle; however, Tech turned it into a one-sided affair by shooting 62% from the floor and 85% from the free-throw line.

Coach Lysaker's gang picked up two more victories with wins over Lake Region Junior College of Devil's Lake, N. D., 64-61, and over the Grand Forks Air Base team, 89-85. In commenting on the game against the Air Base, Coach Lysaker remarked that it was one of the best games that the Trojans had played during this year and "a great way to end the season."

Plague Cage Five

Danielson applies his guard technique against an Air Force player.

Steve Danielson and Brian Bohnsack (above) were basketball captains. Howard Lind (below) attempts to block a basket by Metro star, Oliver Shannon.

