An over-all average of 138 men have been enrolled in agricultural courses during the past school year. These students have had the opportunity to work with members of the University's Northwest Experiment Station staff in a student-faculty relationship and to benefit by their knowledge and research. The Experiment Station, now 72 years old, is headed by Dr. B. E. Youngquist. Its reputation in research is world-wide, and its staff make frequent appearances at agricultural gatherings and seminars.
