

Gary Evje and John Homan try out a new chemistry experiment.

David A. Stoppel, PhD.
Chairman, General Education

Broad education

The basic backgrounds in the liberal arts are transmitted to all UMC students through the General Education Division, headed by Dr. David Stoppel. Recognizing the need for cultural studies as well as prerequisites for majors in other divisions, the department offers a wide range of subjects planned to fit student needs. All men and women are enrolled in one or more general education courses during their residence. Science, mathematics, communications, social studies, and humanities are included.

Doris S. Flom, B.A.
Communications

Wendell D. Johnson, M.A.
Science

Joseph P. Mazzitelli, M.E.
Speech, Social Studies

