

Resources center

Learning to read and listen more efficiently is the goal of the students who enroll in the Reading and Study Skills Center located in the library. One of the best equipped in this section of the country, the Center has study booths, machines to aid in improving reading and comprehension, and diagnostic equipment for the discovery of individual problems. Under the direction of Leon Flancher, instructor, a student may attend individualized sessions until he reaches his desired level of achievement. One credit can be earned for a full quarter's work.

Reading-Study Skills

Staff members Flancher, Opgrand, and Mazzitelli experiment with the new video equipment in a speech class. Also in the picture are Brian Sjodin, Dennis Sleiter, and David Hesse.

Mr. Flancher demonstrates the use of the reading pacer to Lt. Gov. James Goetz, who visited the campus in late February.

Three students concentrate on improvement to the exclusion of even the photographer. It must get warm in those carels. Note the fan.
