

"We're number one!" shout the Trojans following their victory over Hibbing J.C.

School life:

Escaping from the routine of studies, Tech students say, "Do your thing," whether it be a peaceful demonstration, a noisy victory jaunt downtown, or a browse around the bookstore. When books, term papers, and exams get you uptight, take a breather, grab a coke, and read that newsy letter from home, glance through your hometown newspaper, have a pillow or snowball fight, or order a pizza.

Appearing to be leaning on his broom, Mr. Tindall is actually the victim of a wall at his back and an elbow in his ribs as the Crookston Colonels broomball team fights the Tech faculty for a victory.

Stealing the scene at the Snow Days dance are Queen Una Rae and her fiancé, Stuart Smith.
