

A contemporary dance group calling themselves the Minnesota Dance Company presented a memorable program in Knutson Hall gymnasium in late March. Talented and young, the troupe offered something fresh and new to viewers who sometimes think of dancing only in terms of the formalities of classical ballet. This is a scene from "Tom Jones", as suggested by the 18th century novel of the same name.

This is Tom Tammi, who played the lead role in "The Devil's Disciple." The play was presented in January by Heartland Productions, a group of actors affiliated with the Guthrie Theatre. This satiric Shaw comedy, which was given in Kiehle auditorium, was greatly enjoyed by a large audience that braved a blizzard (as did the cast) to attend.

The appearance of the Minnesota Symphony Orchestra here in February gave campus music lovers a real treat. Many students who had never heard a great symphony except on records had the opportunity to both listen and look. Pictured here is a part of the string section of the famous musical group.
