

Campus ministry Guides love inn

Named the Love Inn by Bruce Rude, the attractive room on second floor in Kiehle occupied by the campus ministry is a popular spot for counsel and conversation. The clergymen in charge even furnish food for the body as well the mind. Father Pat Kelly, the Rev. Stanley Johnson, Pastor Paul Gilbertson, and the Rev. Harold Dayton alternate in serving as hosts to students in the afternoon. Purpose of this cooperative ecumenical program is to give more effective aid to those in the college who need guidance with spiritual and ethical problems. Among their activities this year were picnics at Maple Lake, Lenten services, and residence hall visits. The Campus Ministry also brought two outstanding speakers here: Dr. John Schultz and the Rev. Leonard Swidler.

Karen Sorenson and Father Kelly examine a paperback on a religious subject.

Pastor Gilbertson mixes a brew (instant) for a guest.

Prize-winner Bruce gets his check from Father Kelly for naming the room.

Long in smiles and inches is the Rev. Stan Johnson, shown here in the doorway to the Inn.
