

Everything Cooperates For Snow Days Fun

Take several inches of new snow, large portions of enthusiasm, dozens of brooms, skis, snowsleds, and amateur sculptures, a bevy of beauty queens and popular he-man king candidates, mix well at temperatures well above zero, and what do you have? A Snow Days weekend, of course. Wanda Webb was general chairman of what turned out to be a notable mid-winter celebration February 11-15. Debora Sue Nelson and Harlow Grove reigned over the festivities. Attendants were Kaye Gryskiewicz, Kathy Rude, Jim LeClair, and Bruce Bakke. Trophies went to Stephens for snow sculpture, to the Polars of Stephens for broomball, and to Ken Amiot for snowmobile racing. The Ides furnished music for a Snow Dance held at the Crookston Armory on Saturday night. All in all, it was a good recipe for fun.

Standing with her king, Harlow Grove, UMC's 1970 Snow Day Queen, Debby Nelson, is crowned by the 1969 King, Dean Carlson.

The Ides provided dancing enjoyment for all at the Sweetheart Ball held in the Crookston Armory.
