

at April Banquet

Change must have responsibility. People must decide the kind of world they'd like to live in and then figure out intelligently how to get there. This was the gist of the message given to students, faculty, and visitors at the Honors Day banquet by Dr. Roland Dille, president of Moorhead State College, who was guest speaker at the April 21 affair. Allen Croone acted as master of ceremonies and music was furnished by the choir. Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom presented awards to students for academic achievement and announced the names of those elected to Who's Who in American Junior Colleges and Phi Theta Kappa as well as those earning the Student Service pins for their contributions to campus life. The dinner was sponsored by the University of Minnesota Alumni Club of Crookston, a group of Twin Cities campus graduates living in the area. Dr. David Stoppel, president, introduced honor students from city high schools who were guests of the alumni.

Presenting his address at the banquet is Dr. Roland Dille, president of Moorhead State College.

After the banquet, Dr. Dille visited informally with students and faculty. Here he, Dr. Sahlstrom, and Mr. Croone find humorous things to chat about.

A Phi Theta Kappa award to Gerald Helgeson is presented by David Korsmo, one of last year's recipients.
