

Job Experience Valuable

Internship, or POP, as it is called informally, is a requirement in most majors. Here Paul Hutchins of HRI chefs in the kitchens of the Upper Deck in Crookston.
