

It's Good Business to Be Businesslike

Innovation and aggressiveness by a dedicated staff have been the components of success in the business division. Like other divisions of the college, there is the regard for the progress and development of the individual student who majors in accounting, business administration, secretarial studies, or general business. A student may elect any of thirteen majors suited to his vocational goals.

A typing class learning to be secretaries.

Machine calculation tests don't seem to baffle Arlyn Stroble and Brad Ranten. RIGHT, Roz Bucholz learns what it's like to be a secretary by working in the model office.

Tim Urbaniak masters the maze of steps on the keypunch.
