

Everyone marches to a different drummer. Some wait in slow moving lines to eat. Others get in step with music they love, while another group wants to improve its skills in order to read the world's best books or the latest Mad magazine. Anyway no one is supposed to park at any time.

Bruce Beresford, above, Tech horticulturist and wit, shows the prospective flower growers, how to keep a plant healthy. Right, Reading and Learning Center instructor Gretchen Starks and Student Vince Mendez conquer their problem. Listening is a busy place for those who need to improve their skills in listening and speed comprehension.
