

Above are some of the members of the Park and Recreation club. Below a few of the Young Republicans, dedicated to learning to be intelligent citizens. Lower Left: One of the most active groups on campus is the Vets club, shown here entertaining themselves and others at a fall picnic.

There is a club for everything and everyone in his club — almost. Organizations range from groups dedicated to professions and politics, to the arts and recreation. They all meet regularly or intermittently, and many serve the college and its faculty in valuable ways. Above is Horticulture club member, Dale Schmidt, selling plants.

Three Transcultural club men try their feet on a foreign dance.

