

More clubs to suit one's taste! The only type undetected so far is a Study Club. Maybe that comes later. To the right are the VICAs, young women from the Agassiz School of Practical Nursing, which is affiliated with the college.

Archery fans meet both indoors and out, depending on the weather. The sport is a favorite with both men and women students.

And then we have Horsemasters for those who like riding, rodeos, shows, races, buggy riding — as well as all the care and training of the animal.

Why is Helen Murray, Ski Club member, sliding on a tire? She should be on her skis doing a slalom. Actually, this group can ski, and it takes frequent trips during the season and has fun.

Rick Flacksbarth is an articulate member of the Sound Factory, the organization that works with KCUM, campus radio station.
